IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear father, A. B. Ferguson, who passed away four years ago, today, Sept. 29, 1952.

Four years ago, dear father
You quietly slipped away,
To rest in the arms of Jesus.
We will never forget that day.

Some may think we have forgotten you.
When they see us smile,
But they little know the sorrow
That we suffer all the while.

No one knows our sorrow,
A few have seen us weep;
But the way our hearts ache
For you, dear Daddy,
And wish you were here to guide us
Along, as you always did.
All we can do now, dear Daddy,
Is remember the lesson you taught us and try to follow you.
For we know you are safe with
Jesus, where no harm can reach you,
And waiting to greet us when we get there. As we go to your grave and place flowers,
We breathe a prayer that some day we will meet you where there always will be happiness.
—Sadly missed by

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear Husband and Daddy, Edgar Moore, who passed away one year ago, September 27, 1955.

One year has passed
Since he left us here alone,
And we miss him more and more,
Oh, how sad is our home.

God gave and He has taken away,
Some day we will understand why.
A vacant place is in our home,
A voice we loved is still.
His sweet memory helps us to live.

I think of you in silence,
Your name I often call;
There is nothing left to answer,
But your picture on the wall.

Distributive Education-Diversified Occupation Classes at A. H. S. in Need of Placements

The Distributive Education and Diversified Occupations Programs now in their second year in Appomattox High School.

Distributive Education refers to vocational education for those engaged in distributing goods and services to the public, including all phases of wholesale and service occupations. Distributive Education is an example of cooperative training requiring the joint interest and efforts of the school, the distributive businesses and the community. In this program the student attends school in the morning hours and receives his academic subjects plus courses in Distributive Education which is then free for employment and training agency in the afternoon hours. The student studies all phases of distribution in the classroom as: salesmanship, retail merchandising, stockkeeping, advertising, display, store speech, product information and human relations. The coordinator works with the employer in correlating the classroom instruction with on the job experiences.

Diversified occupations is a program designed to provide vocational industrial training opportunities for high school juniors and seniors. It is a form of part time training that involves a cooperative arrangement between trade and industrial enterprises of the community and the public high school. The trade and industrial establishments furnish part time employment and training to pupils during their regular school hours. Through this employment the students learn the manipulative part of their jobs under actual working conditions. At the same time the school furnishes the technical subject material related to the jobs being learned. It also provides a qualified coordinator who directs the learning of the students in their study of related technical information and visits the students at regular intervals during their work periods in industry. The related material is closely correlated with the operations the pupils learn on the job.

The word "diversified" is used because one coordinator supervises the work and directs the studies in a large variety of occupations. In the related study classrooms there may be represented as many occupational interests as there are pupils enrolled. The purpose of the diversified occupations course is to make possible the organized vocational training that prepares boys and girls for the trade and industrial occupations available in their own community.

Both of these programs are a part of the local public school system and are administered by a qualified coordinator. Mrs. Joan K. Smith, Coordinator at Appomattox High School, received her educational training from Madison College (BA), University of Pittsburgh, University of Virginia and Richmond Professional Institute. Her work experience has included Sevilla Hotel Apartments, Thalheimers, Rice's Fashion Corner, E. I. DuPont, the C & P Telephone Company of Virginia, and the City of Richmond. In addition to the two and one half years she was coordinator at Maury High School in Norfolk, she has taught in the social studies field and done guidance work at Norview High School in Norfolk and Manchester High School in Chesterfield County.

The conditions necessary for initiating and operating these programs are: (1) school authorities and employers must be mutually willing to cooperate, (2) there must be job opportunities for the students, and (3) young people must wish to learn through work - study training programs.

In February 1955 a survey of the community was made by the State Department of Education to determine the need for these work training programs in Appomattox High School and the placements in training agencies in the communities. The results of that survey are as follows:

Firms contacted	31
Firms indicating they would employ students	21
Firms indicating they would not employ students	1
Firms indicating a possibility of employment	9

Mrs. Smith has been surveying the community during August and September to determine placements for those students who are enrolled in these courses for this school year. The results of her surveying are as follows:

Firms contacted	58
Firms indicating they would employ students	11
Firms indicating they would not employ students	26
Firms indicating a possibility of employment	21
Firms recontacted and no employment	10
Firms now employing Co-op students	7
Students yet to be placed	12

As it now stands, there are more students enrolled for these courses than there are placement in training agencies. This means that students who desire to receive training in high school to enable them for worthwhile adult employment for being denied the opportunity. If an individual or group would like further information on these programs, Mrs. Smith would be glad to give further explanation.

Homemakers Items

Size, utility, and balance are important items to consider when you buy kitchen utensils.

VPI home economists say size is usually given on the utensil or on the label. The results of your recipes depend a great deal on the size of cooking utensils. If pans too large, food won't brown properly. If they're too small, food will run over the edge.

Baking pans should fit your oven. To obtain the best circulation of heat, pans shouldn't touch the sides of the oven or other pans in the oven.

Select top-of-the-stove pans to cover the size of the burner so that the heat will be evenly distributed and not wasted.

Many utensils are adapted to more than one type of cooking. Casseroles often double as baking and serving dishes.

If the weight is properly balanced, the utensil won't tip when it's empty. Check to see that the handle is firm and won't slip in your hand when the utensil is full.

Waffles with a different flavor are among suggestions from VPI food specialists these days. Try:

Orange waffles — use plain waffle recipe substituting two tablespoons of orange juice for the same amount of milk, and add grated rind of one orange.

Banana waffles — use plain waffle recipe, but with less milk (1 cup instead of 1½ cup), and add ½ cup of banana pulp.

Coconut waffles — to a plain waffle recipe, add one teaspoon of vanilla, and sprinkle one large tablespoon of shredded coconut over each waffle before baking. Serve with marmalade, lemon or orange juice.

Apricot or peach waffles — add 3-4 cup of drained cooked dried apricots or peaches, cut into fine pieces, to the plain batter before cooking.
